Curvature of the Spine.

DR. HAMILTON,
No. 47, North Gay street, Baltimore,
HAVING turned much of his attention during a long practice to the diseases of the Spine, begs leave to tender his services for the cure or relief of that afflicting malady. The approach of this disease is easily detected by an attentive observer. It makes its appearance generally in children between the second and sixth year; a protuberance of one or more of the small bones composing the spine becomes evident, loss of appetite, irregularity of the bowels, and emaciation soon follow, together with much disinclination to walk—and unless immediate aid is obtained, death or incurable decripitude through life are the certain consequences.

Doctor Hamilton has the satisfaction of knowing that his treatment of this disease, and application of the necessary apparatus, which is simplified at the same time, that it is materially improved, have received the unqualified approbation of many of the most eminent of his medical brethren in Baltimore. Spring corsets, upon a new principle, can be applied for the use of young ladies evincing a tendency to this disease, which, while they afford the most effectual support for either side, may be worn without observation. Satisfactory references might be given to parents whose children have profited by this improved mode of treatment, did not delicacy forbid the publication: they may be easily obtained if desired, by a private interview.

Valuable Family Medicines.

JUST received direct from the proprietors, the following valuable Medicines, all of which have been in use for a number of years past, in almost every part of the United States; have been highly patronised by people of the first respectability; and approved by those who have had occasion to make use of them, for the cure of those disorders, for which they are severally calculated.

Dr. Lee's Genuine (Windham) Bilious Pills,

Universally known and used throughout the United States as a Family Medicine. The fame of these pills has become so great that many have attempted to counterfeit them—to guard against this, the proprietors have procured a Stereotype Label, and each box of Genuine Lee's Pills will hereafter be enclosed in one of these labels, with these words on the sides: "Lee's Genuine Windham Bilious Pills," and on the end of the Label the words, "Samuel Lee, patentee, &c. I. Thompson, agent, joint proprietor," &c. and should any be offered for sale without said Label on them, the purchaser may be apprised that they are counterfeit.

Dr. Thompson's Celebrated Eye-Water:

For the cure of inflamed and sore eyes of almost every description. This valuable preparation comes highly recommended from the most respectable sources. Price 50 and 25 cents a bottle.

Dr. Rawson's Genuine Itch Ointment:

A certain and safe cure for that disagreeable complaint, as well as other irruptions of the skin. Price 37½ cents a box.

Ground Plaster.

I HAVE on hand a large quantity of GROUND PLASTER in barrels and in bulk, which I will sell low.
March 15 A. P. GOVER.

Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fine wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RATCLIFFE,
Fairfax Court-House, Va.

Wanted,

A YOUNG MAN of sober and steady habits, to superintend a fishery. None need apply but one who is well acquainted with seine hauling, and can come well recommended. Enquire of the Printer.

W. & W. Hannon,

CABINET-MAKERS,

RESPECTFULLY inform their friends and the public in general, that they still continue to carry on the above business in all its various branches, at the same old stand, Royal-st. between King and Prince, and have now on hand a handsome assortment of cabinet ware, all of their own manufacture; consisting of side-boards, secretarys and book cases, bureaus, ladies' work stands, mahogany and stained wood bedsteads, cradles, sophas and easy-chairs, one handsome mahogany writing desk, &c. &c. Also, on hand a large quantity of St. Domingo and Bay Mahogany, in log and boards, and cut to any dimensions at a short notice—four or five thousand feet of elegant veneers for bureaus and secretarys, all of which they are determined to sell lower than the same quality can be had in the district. All kinds of upholstry work done as usual.

They would rent for one or more years a very excellent shop and yard for a carpenter, wheelwright, or blacksmith, situated on Royal-street, between Prince and Duke street. Feb 11

THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1819.

From the New-York Evening Post.

A loving epistle to Mr. WILLIAM COBBETT, of North-Hempstead, Long-Island.

"Belov'd of Heaven! the smiling Muse shall shed
Her moonlight halo on thy beauteous head!"
Campbell's Pleasures of Hope.

Pride, boast and glory of each hemisphere!
Well known, and lord in both—great Cobbett hail!
Hero of Botley there, and Hempstead here,
Of Newgate, and a Pennsylvania jail.
Long shall this grateful nation bless the hour [su'd,
When by the beadle and your debts pur-
The victim——like fam'd Barrington, of power,
"You left your country for your country's good!"

Terror of Borough-mongers, Banks and Crowns! [tlereagh!
Thorburn the seedsman, and Lord Cas-
"Potatoe tops" fall withering at your frowns,
Grand "Ruta Baga Turnip" of your day!
Banish the memory of that Lockhart's cane,
And Philadelphian 'pole cats'* from your mind, [main—
Let the world scoff—still you and Hunt re-
Yourselves a host—the envy of mankind!

Whether, as once in "Peter Porcupine,"
You curse the country, whose free air you breathe,
Or, as plain "William Cobbett" toil to twine
Around your brows sedition's poison'd wreath;
Or, in your letter to Sir Francis, tear
All moral ties as under with your pen,
We trace you, gentle spirit, every where,
And greet you first of scribblers and of men.

Well may our hearts with pride and pleasure swell, [meet;
To know that face to face we soon shall
We'll gaze upon you as you stand and sell
"Grammars" and "Garden Seeds" in Fulton-street!
And praise your Book that tells about the weather, [boot,
"Our laws, religion, hogs and things" to
Where your immortal talents teach together
Turnips and "young ideas how to shoot."

In recompense, that you've designed to make
Choice of our soil above all other lands,
A purse we'll raise to pay your debts, and take
Your unsold Registers all off your hands.
For this we ask that you, for once, will show
Some gratitude, and if you can, be civil;
Burn all your books, sell all your pigs, and go
No matter where—to England or the devil!!! CROAKER & CO.

THE REVENGE OF TIRINIE—A HIGHLAND LEGEND.

[The following story is still preserved in the popular traditions of the district where the events it commemmorates are supposed to have happened. The fabulous exaggerations with which it is garnished, and the ferocious deeds it describes, naturally correspond to the medium through which it has been transmitted, and the state of society to which it refers. It was presented to the editors by a gentleman well versed in Celtic literature, and is now given to our readers, as he received it, without alteration or embellishment.]

Before the fourteenth century, great animosities had arisen betwixt the Cumings and the Macintoshes, a branch of the last having considerable possessions lying contiguous to those of Cumming, Earl of Badenoch and Athol. This nobleman's lady was reported to have possessed a most voracious appetite, to gratify which she was under the necessity of oppressing the poor tenants to an extreme degree. It is said that she usually devoured a chopin † of marrow, every day, besides having her table covered with a profusion of dainties.—By extravagancies of this kind, she so far reduced her estate, that her vassals being no longer able either to pay their rents or to till their ground, she was obliged to have recourse to her more wealthy neighbors, by soliciting presents from them, which practice in Scotland goes under the name of Thigging. After ranging the country in search of presents, she told her husband what success she met with among her friends, and that the great Macintosh of Tirinie had given her twelve cows and a bull. This piece of generosity, instead of making him thankful for such a valuable present, only tended to excite his envy at the opulence of his neighbor. He dreaded his greatness, and from thence forth devised his destruction, to facilitate which, he gave out that that gentleman had been too familiar with his lady. This, he tho't was a precious pretext, and a sufficient ground of quarrel. He now waited a favorable opportunity of executing his design, which he soon accomplished, by surrounding this gentleman's castle of Tomafuir, (a short mile from his own residence of Blair Atholl.) in the silent hour of midnight, and massacred the whole family, sleeping securely in their beds, suspecting no harm. This done, he seized upon his possessions, which were the most extensive of any gentleman's in that country.

Near this murdered gentleman's place lived an old man, who held a small piece of land of him, for which he only paid a bonnet yearly. His master always gave him his old bonnet when he received the new one—for which that peice of land is still called the Bonnet Croft, and the tenant thereof was called Bigstone Carle, because he built his house beside a large stone, which served as a side or gable end to his house.—The above old man wondered how his master's place could be so quiet, and, perceiving no smoke in the morning after the slaughter, went at last to know the cause. He no sooner entered than he saw some of their mangled bodies lying lifeless on the floor. Astonished at such a shocking spectacle, he examined them all over, in expectation of finding some remain of life, but in vain. Overwhelmed with grief, he turned up the cradle in search of an infant, who was known by the name of Dwindling Hugh, and, to his no small joy, found him alive, but almost crushed to death with the weight of the cradle and clothes. He eagerly seized the child and carried him to his grandfather by the mothers side, Macglashan of Innervach, who sent him to a near relation in Argyllshire, of the name of Campbell, in order to be out of Cuming's way, where he was carefully brought up.—The old man who carried him thither came often to see him, but on account of the greatness of the Cumings every where in Scotland, it was thought prudent to conceal his birth from him, until he was of age to make head against them. Though he was long weakly, he at length recovered and grew up to manhood, was a very promising youth and an excellent bowman, which made his aged conductor entertain hopes of his being some time or other able to revenge the murder of his family. Coming one time to see him and perceiving his dexterity at hitting the mark, he told him, that the breast of the man who killed his father was much broader——which greatly surprised the youth, who knew nothing of it before.

The old man immediately informed him, with all the feelings of an old servant and dependant of the family, of his birth and misfortune. The young gentleman listened with the utmost concern, and, being sensibly touched at the barbarous treatment of his parents he burst out into tears, and poured out his soul in the bosom of his faithful guardian. Being now fully acquainted with what had happened, he grew impatient for the recovery of his birth-right, and the punishment of the perpetrators of the massacre. It is scarce credible what pleasure the old man felt at finding the dear object of his care now ready to accompany him to his own country. They both solicited his relations for a select band of warriors to march against his enemy, who were soon prevailed upon to grant their request.

Accordingly 24 able men, well armed, were raised, who immediately set out and arrived at his grandfather's, who joined them with other eight. From thence they betook themselves to the wood of Little Urard, where they remained very quiet until they had received intelligence from Hugh's nurse. Calling at her door, she asked who it was at such a late hour. He replied that he was Hugh Macintosh, It is like your voice, says she, but if you'll breathe in thro' the key hole, I'll know for certain whether you are my Hugh, which he instantly did, and she, knowing his breath, immediately let him in, and congratulated him on his safe arrival. His nurse was sent to learn something of Cuming, and returned with the news of his going to the Bridge of Tilt, about a mile off, to divert himself with his troop. Upon this information they set out in two divisions, one of which being commanded by Macglashan, went to keep him from returning to his castle; and the other commanded by Hugh, accompanied by the old man went in search of him. As soon as they were perceived by Cuming to be enemies, he fled towards his castle, when he was met by the other division, who, after killing several about the castle walls, pursued them up a narrow valley called Glen Tilt, killing and wounding many in the pursuit; the nose being shot off one, at a rivelut bearing his name; another was shot through the belly at Altna Narag, i. e. "the pudding rill," because his entrails came out. While they were thus hotly pursued up the Glen by Macglashan, the other division commanded by Hugh, took a seat cut round a mountain, and was a considerable way beyond them, and waited for their coming up. It is said that the old man was always the foremost of his company, and when he saw them approach, he prepared himself, and in a fierce warlike tone, said to the young gentlemen,—"Here comes the great Cuming riding foremost; if you let him escape, you deserve a coward's death.' On which Hugh instantly drew an arrow and shot Cuming through the heart from the other side of a small lake called Loch-loch. He fell upon a broad stone at the roads side, where, according to custom a heap of stones was raised in remembrance thereof, still to be seen, called Cuming's Cairin. Such monuments are called by the highlanders Cairns Folanchd, i. e. Cairns of Hatred.

ALEXANDRIA:
THURSDAY, MAY 6, 1819.

ON THE VALUE OF THE BIBLE AS A SCHOOL BOOK.

Hesiod, who sings on the same subject, after a tedious complimentary address to the muses, opens his poem with an absurd genealogy of Chaos, Tellus, Cœlum, Nox, Either and Dies: he has, however, one line resembling that beautiful expression of the spirit of God moving on the face of the waters; where the incubation of the heaven on the earth generates the ocean. Milton, by expanding the idea has weakened it:

"On the wat'ry calm,
His brooding wings the spirit of God outspread." Book 7th.

Yet he shews how much he was delighted with it, by inserting it in two other places in his poem:

"With mighty wings outspread,
Dove-like sat brooding on the vast abyss."
Book 1st.

And again:

"As with a mantle, did invest
The rising world of waters dark and deep."
Book 3d.

Though none of the great epic poets have copied the abrupt manner of the sacred writings, I cannot omit to mention and prefer to all others Doctor Young's introduction to his Night Thoughts, as natural and most suitable to the solemnity of his subject:

"Tired nature's sweet restorer, balmy sleep!
He, like the world his ready visit pays
Where fortune smiles; the wretched he forsakes;
Quick on his downy pinions flies from woe,
And lights on lids unsullied with a tear."

The translation of Ossian's Fingal furnishes us with a beautiful and artless introduction of the descriptive kind.

"Cuchullin sat by Jura's wall, by the fall of the rustling leaf His spear leaned against the mossy rock; his shield lay by him on the grass, as he thought of mighty Cailbar, our hero whom he slew in war."

These two only seem to approach the beautiful exordium of Genesis.

In this chapter we have also a more persuasive display than in any other author, of the power of the Supreme Being, whose creative word, in the various divisions and stricture of the elements "spake and it was so." And what a lasting impression of affection and gratitude must the conclusion have on the memory of the reader, when he contemplates the Deity pleased with the humble objects of his labor, "and God saw every thing that he had made, and behold it was very good."

How much does the concise simplicity of the first verse exceed even the bold description of Milton, who represents the Deity measuring the circumference of the world with a pair of compasses.

"One foot he centered, and the other turned
Round through the vast profundity obscure,
And said, thus far extend, thus far thy bounds,
This be thy just circumference, O world."
Book 7th.

In Milton, whose Paradise Lost is founded on the subject of the creation and fall of Adam, we should expect the most accurate delineation of the style of Moses, nor is our expectation disappointed; for as his subject is the most noble and exalted, so are his sentiments and language the most sublime of any other poet: but yet when he endeavors to force the words of the scripture into his version, compare the two, and see how he lessens the strength and harmony of the expression:

"Because thou'st hearken'd to the voice of thy wife,
And eaten of the tree, concerning which
I charg'd thee, saying, thou shalt not eat thereof;
Curst is the ground for thy sake; thou in sorrow
Shalt eat thereof all the days of thy life:
Thorns and thistles it shall bring thee forth
Unbid, and thou shalt eat the herb of the field;
In the sweat of thy face, shalt thou eat bread,
'Till thou return unto the ground; for thou
Out of the ground was taken;—know thy birth
For dust thou art, and shalt to dust return."
Book 10th

How sublimely simple and impressive in comparison with that effort of even the sublime author of the Paradise Lost, is the original chapter of Genesis from which he took it:

"Because thou hast hearkened to the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saying, thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in sorrow shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life. Thorns and thistles it shall bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field. In the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground, for out of it thou wast taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." Genesis, 3d chap. 17th, 18th and 19th verses.

Whatever improvement may be made in the style and manner of a divine author, by elegance of numbers and sweetness of correct rhymes, this failure of Milton is an undeniable proof, that all attempts in blank verse are void of advantage and success: yet the Messiah of Mr. Pope has many lines taken from Isaiah, in which the sublime beauties of that divine writer are not much diminished; and the dignified passage at the beginning of the above-mentioned chapter, is agreeably paraphrased by the following couplet, in his elegant epistle of Eloisa:

"Still as the seas ere winds were taught to blow,
Or moving spirit bade the waters flow."
BARROW.

From the National Intelligencer, May 4.

We have a rumour, by the way of Georgia, of a cession of the Island of Cuba by Spain to Great Britain. We hope, as the Augusta Chronicle surmises, that the rumour is "entirely unfounded." But such an event is not impossible. The mere rumour of it is pregnant with considerations of vital importance, connected with the existing Peace with foreign nations, and with the tranquility of the Union.

We have never heard but with regret the hints which have been thrown out occasionally in newspaper discussions, in political orations, and, if recollection serves us right even on the floor of Congress, respecting the acquisition of Cuba, or any other insular possessions, for the United States. In this respect, our opinion probably differs from that of many of our readers, as we know it does from that of some of our leading politicians. But it is our opinion still, and we cannot divest ourselves of it. Our appetite for territory is sated by the acquisitions we have already made. We desire no greater population within our federative system than we have already territory enough to accommodate with an affluent supply of the necessaries and comforts of life. We particularly covet no trans-marine possessions, requiring extensive military and naval establishments to maintain them, and territorial governments of despotic energy not suited to our free institutions. We can never forget the lesson our boyish reading taught us, of the inconvenience, not to say danger, to a Republic, of provinces and provincial governments.

Without enlarging, however on this head we cannot but confess, much as we should deprecate the necessity of our acquiring possession of Cuba, we would yet rather it should be ceded to us than to Great Britain. In process of time, if it do not become independent, perhaps it must belong to us, and we must do the best we can with it.—At present, in the hands of Spain, it is innoxious, from the weakness of her marine; and its markets are equally open to us with the rest of the world. In the hands of Great Britain, with her numerous marine swarming from its harbors over the Gulf of Mexico, this island would be, from its locality, a source of continual collision, a provocative to hostilities: which would be little less provoked, by the system of colonial exclusion which Great Britain might be expected to establish in regard to that, as to her other colonies.

We hope the report of the transfer is not true. If it be not, we have no occasion to say any thing more about it.

From the Augusta Chronicle, of April 23.

IMPORTANT—IF TRUE.

We understand it is rumored in Savannah that the Island of CUBA has been ceded to Great Britain. Our informant says that he saw in Savannah a gentleman recently from Cuba, who told him that intelligence of the cession had reached that island just before his leaving it; in consequence, great disapprobation was excited among the inhabitants, who with the constituted authorities generally, had remonstrated in spirited terms against the measure—declaring that, rather than submit to such a transfer, they would throw off their allegiance and assert their independence. The above reached us through the most respectable source; but the silence of the Savannah papers induces us to believe the report unfounded.

Montreal, (Canada) April 16.

We are continually hearing of a nest of scoundrels who are employed, it is said, in manufacturing imitations of notes of banks in the United States. They reside deep within the woods in the neighborhood of St. Armand, and in other places; and their deleterious transactions are carried on with a degree of cunning only equalled by their villainy. It will not be long before they will begin in all probability to fabricate the notes of the Canada banks; and we shall then have to rue that supineness which has tacitly allowed these vipers to carry on their nefarious doings for want of some active exertions to bring them to justice: a very censurable neglect, and extremely unjust, though we had continued to have had nothing to fear for ourselves from them. It is supposed that our laws are not sufficiently explicit, on this offence, to authorise the punishment of these fellows.—Hence one or two of them who have been brought up to Montreal on charges connected with this practice, have been able to effect their escape either with a trivial punishment, or with perfect impunity.

PROGRESS OF MEDICINE.

We are furnished with a list of those physicians who graduated at the University of Pennsylvania at the public commencement held on the 25th April. The result manifests the respect which the science of the lancet bears in the Old Dominion. The following are the number, who have enlisted in the cause, from each State, &c.

Canada	1	North Carolina	4
Connecticut	2	South Carolina	8
New-Jersey	5	Georgia	5
Pennsylvania	21	Kentucky	6
Delaware	3	Tennessee	1
Maryland	3	Ohio	1
D. Columbia	2	Louisiana	1
Virginia	37	Missouri Ter.	1
Ireland	1

In all one hundred and two graduates.—Of these Virginia claims more than one-third! She has sixteen more than Pennsylvania herself, the seat of the University. She has as many as the nine highest on the list, (with the exception of Pennsylvania) have together! more than all the country south and west of Pennsylvania has, put together.

Besides these, she has, no doubt, her due portion of Representatives at the Medical Universities of Baltimore and New-York. Virginia thus contributes more than her adequate quota of adepts in the Healing Art! [Richmond Compiler.

AMERICAN ANTIQUITIES.

Zanesville, (Ohio) March 30.

We have seen an article in the "Cleveland Register," which stated that a mound of considerable dimensions on the west side of the Cuyahoga river, had been opened and a number of silver broaches found within the body of it which were much corroded by rust. The writer of the article proves that the mound was a depository of the dead, by the remains of human bones which were found, and he also proves it to be of great antiquity, by a part of the bones being in a state of dust when found, and the apparently sound parts presently becoming so, upon exposure to air. The same paragraph affirms that an earthen pot, capable of holding three gallons, has been recently washed by the Miami river from a mound originally on its bank, which was 350 feet in diameter at its basis and 100 feet high. From these and many other similar discoveries, the writer believes (and we think with good reason) that this country was once inhabited by a race of people, at least, partially civilized, and that this race have been exterminated by the forefathers of the present and late tribes of Indians in this country. [Express.

We mentioned a few days since, the arrival here of three natives of Madison's Island, in the ship Lion; since when, we have been informed by capt. Townsend, that the fortifications and buildings erected by commodore Porter had been demolished, but the benign influence of his exertions and the fame of his name still remained with the natives, who live in great harmony and social intercourse. The hostile tribes learnt war no more—and the Typees were frequent visitors of the Lion, while she lay at the Island. A curious instance of gestation occurred among the ship's company at Madison's Island.—While on shore one day, one of them observed in the hollow of a tree, several small eggs, which he put in his pocket for future examination; having occasion to feel therein soon after, he drew out a handful of little lizards, quickened by the warmth of their novel situation.

The Sachem, which left Buenos Ayres on the 10th of March, and from W. G. D. Worthington, esq. we learn, that by the last accounts, Chili was freed from the Royalists. Mr. W. left Chili on the 29th January, making the journey across the continent, and has furnished us with an interesting detail of events, which we have not room for to-day. Lord Cochrane, with his squadron, sailed from Valparaiso on the 14th January, for the purpose of blockading Callao, &c. and capture and burn the shipping, being well prepared with rockets, &c. Capt. Wooster, of the Santino, had resigned, whose place was filled by capt. Guise, of the British navy.

The United States' frigate Macedonian, was reported to have arrived at Valparaiso about the beginning of February.

Violence.

ON Saturday evening last, about 11 o'clock, I was sitting on the quarter-deek of my vessel, when a man on board a craft not far from me began to mock the watchmen; and they came down, and he made his escape. One of them came on board my vessel, and took me by the shoulder, saying to the others, this is the man. I immediately told them they were mistaken—I was not the person, for he was in the other vessel, showing them—but all in vain;—you are the man, and I will swear it, said one of them. Now I am determined if money can do me justice, and can relieve me from being dragged from their vessels by violence, to that dirty place called the watch-house, to prosecute for the assault, as I do not know what other redress I can get. If men are to be treated in this way, I am sure no decent person will come to the wharfs of Alexandria. After taking me, my hands being in the cabin, they hauled the slider over, and fastened it—so they had to remain there until they could alarm the neighboring vessels to relieve them from the cabin. I appeal to the public, whether a peaceable man should be hauled through the streets by a parcel of men who do not know their business.

Valuable Land for Sale.

THE subscriber will sell at private sale the tract of land on which he lives, containing about 1500 Acres.
It joins the town of Warrenton, the seat of justice for Fauquier county—It is 42 miles from Alexandria, the city of Washington and Georgetown; 40 from Fredericksburg; and 45 from Winchester. This estate, in a neighborhood celebrated for health and good water, is well adapted to grazing and to the growth of corn and wheat. The turnpike road leading from Alexandria to Warrenton is finished, with the exception of seven miles. The improvements are a two story HOUSE, about fifty feet long, in the suburbs of Warrenton; two houses for overseers; a large barn, stables, and every necessary house for a farm. On the property are three good apple orchards, and a variety of other fruit trees. This tract is now divided into two farms—each of which has a superabundance of wood, and is laid off into six fields under good fences, with running water in every field. I believe there is a sufficiency of stone on the land to enclose the whole tract. Both farms have been under a course of clover and plaster for several years, by which they have been much improved, as the plaster acts with very great effect. The subscriber will divide the tract to suit purchasers. The terms are one third down, with an accommodating credit on the balance, if he sells a part; but only one fourth if the purchaser buys the whole tract, together with the stock of horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, the farming utensils of every description, and all the provision that may be on hand for the support of the farm.

A New brig at Auction.

Will be sold at public auction, on SATURDAY the 8th inst. at captain Scott's wharf, Georgetown, at 12 o'clock precisely,
A Choice New Brig,
just off the stocks, about 200 tons burthen, 52 feet keel, 24 feet beam, and 12 feet hold. Her timbers and workmanship will stand the strictest inspection.

Richard Parrott, esq. of Georgetown, is under contract to rig her 'to a block and sheet,' and I am to finish her 'to a cleet;' to be then owned jointly. My half will be sold under this contract, at 6, 12, 18 and 24 months credit—the notes to be secured by two satisfactory endorsers. Mr. Parrott will sell his half, if desirable.

Apply, for particulars, on board, at capt. Scott's wharf, Georgetown, to her constructor, Reubin Nash.

My contract with Mr. Parrott will be exhibited on the day of sale.

Public Sale.

BY virtue of a deed of trust from Daniel McPherson and wife to the subscriber to secure to the Mechanics' Bank of Alexandria the payment of a debt due from John McPherson and Son, will be sold at public sale on the premises, on THURSDAY, the 10th day of June next, a certain tract of land, known by the name of ROUND-HILL, in the county of Fairfax, lying on both sides of the Colchester road, adjoining the lands of George Triplett, Dr. Richard Mason, and others, containing 164¼ acres, be the same more or less. This land is handsomely situated, and has lately received considerable improvements. Few farms of its size in the county, perhaps, present higher inducements to a tasteful proprietor.

The terms are one-fourth cash, and the remainder in three equal instalments at 12, 18 and 24 months, with interest from the day of sale. W. VEITCH, Trustee.

Marshal's Sale,

BY virtue of five several writs of Fieri facias, from the honorable circuit court for Washington county, to me directed, will be exposed to auction, for cash on WEDNESDAY the 12th inst. at the book-store of Joseph Milligan, High-street, Georgetown, the books and stationary of said Milligan, seized and taken to satisfy the debts and costs due Messrs. Simpkins & Usher, Charles Williams, Samuel Smith and John Holtzman.
TENCH RINGGOLD, Marshal.
May 6 6t

Public Sale.

ON the 9th DAY of JULY next, at 12 o'clock of that day, by virtue of a deed of trust, we will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder, on the premises, that very valuable tract of land in Fairfax county, near Holmes's Run, and about four miles from Alexandria, generally known by the name of containing about 115 acres. This land is about one half in wood—the balance cleared, and in cultivation, with convenient buildings on it, and excellent water near them. A considerable proportion of the open land is fertile, and well calculated for timothy meadows.
Cox's Place,

The sum of $2,264 77 cts will be required to be paid in cash; for the residue a credit of twelve months will be given from the day of sale, the purchaser paying interest thereon, and giving satisfactory security for the punctual payment thereof. A conveyance will be made when the purchase money and interest is all paid up. If the terms of the sale should not be complied with by the purchaser, the premises will be immediately re-sold to the highest bidder, at the risque of the person to whom it shall have been struck off; and the same course will be repeated until an effectual sale shall have taken place.

Gunston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. This estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensils and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

September 4 GEORGE MASON.

Valuable Property for Sale.

THE subscriber is desirous of selling a handsomely situated farm, on Hunting creek, in Fairfax county Virginia, adjoining the Mount Vernon estate and the lands of general Thomson Mason, four miles from Alexandria, containing about 240 acres, 80 of which are in wood—40 to 50 in thriving meadow of clover and timothy—a part of the residue recently seeded with wheat and rye, and clover, last spring—the whole enclosed with a new post and rail fence.—The improvements are, a comfortable and convenient frame dwelling house and kitchen, smoke house, poultry house, granary and stables.—There is on this place a rich and productive garden, and a large body of marsh meadow, from which may be saved annually 100 tons of hay, nearly as nutricious as the best timothy or clover.—With the farm would be sold a number of very valuable horses, cows and sheep; waggon, carts, and a variety of farming utensils and household and kitchen furniture; corn, oats and rye, and 40 tons hay. Also, adjoining the one above described, a farm containing 160 acres, recently enclosed, on which is a brick house, which a trifling expense would render comfortable. The soil is excellent, and a considerable part might be easily converted into meadow.—it would be sold with the other or separately. Also, a number of valuable servants, male and female. To prevent unnecessary application, he would observe, that they will only be sold to persons residing in the District or its vicinity, and not to be carried from it. The subscriber will also sell the greater part of his household furniture, which is new and handsome. For terms of all or any part of the above property, apply to NOBLET HERBERT, esq. or
